In Their Own Words

PC students talk about *finding success

Where will you go?

The education I received from Peninsula College has been invaluable to me. Through the journalism program, I discovered both my passion and my talent. My two years at the Buccaneer allowed me to interview incredible people such as Rory Kennedy and David Sedaris, and to pick the brains of media professionals at annual journalism conferences in both Washington State and New York City. I even gained my first journalism internship because of my time on the Buc.

I am forever grateful for my time on the Buc and the incredible opportunities the journalism program at PC offers to its students.

What did you like most about your instructors?

As someone who has never been a very strong math student, Peninsula College made the required math classes something that didn't seem impossible anymore.

With instructors who make themselves available and want you to succeed, in addition to their tutoring resources, success in math can be for anyone.

The Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA) is a must-have when applying for money to pay for college from PC. There's no cost to apply and we recommend you submit your FAFSA as soon as possible. A new FAFSA is required every academic year. Complete it on your phone using the myStudentAid app.

I chose to go to PC because it's local and affordable. Being in esports has helped me feel more connected to the people here because I have a group I can connect with. I can talk to them about anything.

I took advantage of PC's Worker Retraining Program after the company I worked for went bankrupt and the store I worked in got shut down.

My instructor was easy to talk to and she really took time to explain things in a way that made sense. She shared her first-hand experience, along with textbook teaching.

Before I graduated, I was hired by North Olympic Healthcare Network!

Where will you go after PC?

Peninsula College's online program works for me because it is incredibly convenient for my lifestyle. It is great that I can earn college credits in my own location and not have to travel to campus.

Marley

Running Start & AA Transfer grad

What advice would you give to someone who's thinking about becoming a PC student?

When I first enrolled at Peninsula College I was living couch to couch, doing my best to pick up the pieces of the past and make ends meet. I had to keep moving. Learning, reading and studying have always given me refuge from my surroundings. They allowed me to dream about the things that I could become, do and be while sitting in shambles. I took the steps toward my future, and I walked in the front doors of the college and enrolled.

If you don't know what to do, just put one foot in front of the other. Community and technical colleges have excellent instructors who want you to succeed. Education is the most powerful tool you have.

I'd tell other veterans, find something that you love to do, and just do it. I'm really excited about the future. PC is a really cool place to be and has so much to offer a person of any age. It made me feel young and gave me a whole new perspective on life.

Chris

Multimedia Communications
former student

I would say to folks who are considering college that they have a great opportunity available in their own backyard. Amazing professors, great campus! Sometimes online courses aren't the best option, and most people our age can't just pack up and move. It's all right here. We both loved it. Don't even hesitate to get started toward a degree.

Life is about being dependable, flexible and hardworking. Every day is a new day and you have to be prepared. The PC staff really helped me map out my prerequisites and nursing school plan, so I didn't have to travel to Port Angeles very often.
