Our adult learners are hard-working, family-oriented, and grateful to be in school. Navigating a new country can be daunting, so our classroom is a safe gathering place for them, and we treat each other like a big family. They bring an amazing breadth of backgrounds to the class, and every day is a learning experience for all of us. When my students get their driver’s license, pass the citizenship test, move on to college courses, or simply blossom into confident English speakers, these are concrete achievements that we can all celebrate.

What do you want students to know?

Well, it’s really just an honor getting to know students and being a part of each PC student’s life journey. I love that my position allows me to contribute meaningfully to students and help them reach their educational goals.

This is a college that puts you—the student—front and center. Students choose PC because they know they can get an excellent education at a fraction of the cost they would pay at other colleges and universities. I look forward to meeting you and welcoming you to a very special place.
Nearly one million working-aged adults in Washington have not finished the courses they need to earn a credential, according to the Washington Student Achievement Council (WSAC). Peninsula College, along with two- and four-year campuses across the state, is using a new tool to connect with those individuals. College & Career Compass is an online tool that can help empower adults on the Olympic Peninsula to return to school, earn a credential, and advance in their careers.

The program allows users to:
- Find critical information, tips and resources for returning adult learners.
- Search for Washington educational programs and pathways.
- Connect with campuses committed to supporting adult learners’ progress.

JESSIE MANZER
Student Success Navigator
Multicultural & Inclusion Services

I love the variety of students at PC and all the different backgrounds. Each class is often a mixture of local students just out of high school, athletes from other states, international students, and students returning to school after many years. I’ve always loved working with teenagers because of their energy and spontaneity (which is why I began by teaching in high school), so it’s wonderful to still work a lot with that population, but it’s also a lot of fun to interact with the students my age and to connect with similar experiences.

MICHELE SCOUTEN
English faculty

The best part of working with PC students is learning about each person’s unique story and getting to know students from diverse backgrounds.

I love seeing students succeed. Two years flies by, and it is amazing to see the change in our students over that time. The confidence they get after finishing a degree while dealing with all of the challenges that life throws at them is really something else!

best part of working with PC students?

I have the opportunity to work with the best possible students. Our students come from a wide variety of backgrounds and are pursuing many different kinds of goals but they are consistently hardworking, focused and willing to learn. It is truly a privilege to work with our student population.
