COVER STORY:

Challenge Accepted

Expanding Boundaries Pays Off

Chris Lubbesmeyer came to Peninsula College after serving in the Navy from 2000- 2014, where he did tours in Afghanistan and Kuwait. His decision to attend Peninsula College was influenced by the college's outstanding veteran program. "I called quite a few different colleges, but Peninsula College sold me on the first call," Lubbesmeyer said. "Terry Smith and the Student Services staff were outstanding at expressing the various ways the college supports veterans. Their communication and encouragement sealed the deal."

He gives credit for his success in the business field to Dr. Jill Snyder of Peninsula College's Business Administration program, who challenged him to continually improve his skills while he pursued his degree. "Dr. Snyder inspired me to be actively involved in the campus community," he said. "She really encouraged me to expand my boundaries and explore new opportunities. I was tutoring and mentoring other students, achieving an internship assignment, combined with working, and everything worked out perfectly."

As a part of his degree, Lubbesmeyer successfully completed an internship at First Federal Savings and Loan in Port Angeles. During the first week, he was given a set of financial statements by the credit administrator, and Lubbesmeyer was able to conduct a trend analysis utilizing various ratios that he'd been taught in Peninsula College's accounting program. The administrator was impressed by his level of knowledge as an intern and what he was learning in the business administration courses at Peninsula College. Lubbesmeyer was encouraged to take an entry level position at First Federal as a customer service representative, hoping to get his foot in the door for future advancement opportunities.

Upon graduation from Peninsula College in June of 2016, he received an AAST degree in Business Administration-Entrepreneurship Foundations. Lubbesmeyer says he is looking forward to completing PC's Bachelor of Applied Science in Applied Management program, but has put those ambitions on hold while he works at his new career.

FACULTY HIGHLIGHT

After graduating high school, I chose to be a stay at home mom, but later returned to Peninsula College to further my education. At that time the computer field was new and I wanted to jump on this exciting and evolving career path. I enjoyed the privilege of graduating in PC's first class of Bachelor of Applied Science students and then continued on to get my Master's Degree from Concordia University. I have taught at the North Olympic Peninsula Skills Center and Peninsula College for several years, last year earning the John and Suanne Roueche Excellence Award from the League of Innovation.

I have recently created a new Help Desk and Support Services class that is a great foundational course to either a career in Information Technology, or Computer Application Technology.

My students are amazing. I have witnessed their determination and self-discipline as they learn and progress from one level to the next. Some have started out not knowing how to even turn on a computer, and are now able to assemble computers and administer networks.

I had such a wonderful experience at Peninsula College that I wanted to share my love of learning with others, including first generation, traditional and non-traditional students. I love to hear and be a part of amazing success stories, adding to my conviction that this is more of a mission than a job.

Definitely, the best part about being a PC faculty member is the people that I associate with here – everyone from the students, other professors, staff, even administrators. I feel like they are all family.

MYTHBUSTERS

Myth: Placement tests are required for all Professional Technical classes.

Fact: Placement tests are only required for select classes and degree seekers, so enroll today. If you have questions about this, contact Dr. Mia Boster, mboster@pencol.edu

Myth: It will take 4 years to earn a degree.

Fact: We offer a variety of short term stackable certificates, one year certificates and two year degrees, so start your new career. Learn more at pencol.edu/proftech

Myth: I can't apply workplace experience toward my degree.

Fact: Students can earn college credit for prior work experience. Learn more at pencol.edu/academic-resources/prior-learning-assessment

FACULTY HIGHLIGHT

My passion for teaching began early in my career, as I sought out opportunities for instructional moments in every job. I enjoyed sharing my knowledge and expertise with my clients, peers, colleagues, managers, and owners of small-medium sized businesses, to use financial information to guide their business or organization to success and improved operations. In that process, I learned the joy of teaching and life-long learning.

Prior to joining the faculty in 1988 at Peninsula College, my careers included Chief Accountant in the Clallam County's Auditors office, public accounting practice, accountant in private accounting firms, and manager/controller of a private aquaculture company.

I teach business, accounting, and management courses in the Business Administration and Bachelor of Applied Science programs, and serve as the coordinator of the Business Administration program. In addition, I represent the Business Administration & Information Technology Division as chair, advise the Phi Beta Lambda Leadership and Business club, and work on a variety of committees supporting the college and faculty.

I served as First Speaker of the Peninsula College senate 2011-2013, represented Peninsula College at the 2011 National Association of Foreign Student Advisers international conference, presented at the 2009 Teachers of Accounting at Two Year Colleges national conference, served as an exchange faculty in China on multiple assignments, and have been involved in Soroptimist International of Port Angeles for over 30 years.

I was fortunate to receive a John and Suanne Roueche Excellence Award, which recognizes outstanding contributions to student learning and leadership. Additionally, I have been recognized by the League for Innovation in Community Colleges.

In 2014, I completed my doctoral degree in higher education and adult learning with a research and dissertation entitled "Student Perceptions of Online Learning and Persistence Toward Course Completion" which has inspired me to continue my inquiry of student success. Since completing my degree, I have continued to research student success factors that contribute to improved student retention and enhanced student learning.

One of the best parts about being a PC faculty member is the interaction with students, helping them achieve their academic goals, providing resources to assist them in transitioning into the workforce, or transfer to another institution to further their academic journey.

Hospitality and Ecotourism

Hospitality jobs are one of the highest demand fields in Clallam and Jefferson Counties. Enroll today and advance your career with flexible online classes developed by local employers.

MEDICAL ASSISTING PROGRAM

Discover an exciting career in healthcare with available jobs locally, regionally, and nationally!

Applications open winter quarter and the deadline to apply is 5:00pm on June 1, 2017.

For more information, contact Rachel Pairsh, MA
Program Director: rpairsh@pencol.edu

About the Program:

Our Medical Assisting program trains multi-skilled professionals to work specifically in outpatient care settings. Medical assistants are specifically educated to work in ambulatory settings, performing administrative and clinical duties.

In this program you'll learn from experienced health care professionals, and receive specialized skills in both formal education and practical experience that will make you eligible to take the National Certified Medical Assistant (NCMA) exam and become a certified medical assistant. Our students have a 98.5% pass rate and score on average 12 points higher than national average on the NCMA exam.

Documentation of completed immunizations is part of the application. Visit the program webpage at pencol.edu/proftech/medical-assisting, to review the student handbook and application checklist.

ART 224 / 225 / 226 Ceramics

Item 1310/1330/1350, section AU | TWTh 1:30AM to 3:30PM | 5 cr | Instructor: Steve Belz

Item 1320/1340/1360, section PU | TWTh 10:20AM to 12:20PM | 5 cr | Instructor: Steve Belz

To ceramic materials and creative processes (ART 224), practices an introduction to using the potter's wheel (ART 225), and intermediate studio work, focusing on art theory, processes, and personal expression (ART 226). Students create a series or projects utilizing a variety of traditional and innovative techniques and processes. Prerequisite for ART 226: ART 224 or 225 or permission of the instructor.

CMST 201: Social Media and Society

Item 1850, section AU | TWThF 11:30AM to 12:30PM | 5 cr | Instructor: Rich Riski

Walls fall. Social media weaves a comforting net for many and a withering web for others. Let us explore the phenomena of Facebook, G+ for adults, Twitter, Reddit and others in Social Media & Society, Facebook, Family and Fate. Look at that dark Silk Road from a bird's eye view and the dynamic benefits of the Web to social change, politics, and culture. Prerequisite: CMST&102 or Media 110.

DRAMA 124/125: Acting I / Acting II

Item 2170/2180, section AU | TWF 12:40PM to 2:00PM | 5 cr | Instructor: Lara Starceвич

Maybe you've always had a wish to see your name up in lights... or perhaps you're just curious about the acting craft? Either way, taking an acting class can expand your ability to think on your feet, build confidence, and expand your vocal and physical expressiveness. In Acting I, you will practice external and internal techniques in order to nurture a consistent process when creating believable characters onstage. Students in this course are invited to audition for several projects presented by Film and Media students so that by the end of the quarter, you may be cast in one of their productions that will be produced as a short film.

ENGL& 112: Introduction to Fiction

Item 2690, section AU | TWThF 9:10AM to 10:10AM | 5 cr | Instructor: Matt Teorey

Whose Story Is It Anyway? Ever wonder what Sadie thought when her husband Jim joined Huckleberry Finn on the Mississippi, or who Antoinette was before she became Jane Eyre's madwoman in the attic? In addition to several classic novels, we will read companion stories from a minor character's point of view. We will discuss the social issues, the narrative approaches, and the writing styles of Charlotte Brontë's Jane Eyre, Jean Rhys's Wide Sargasso Sea, Jasper Fforde's The Eyre Affair, Mark Twain's Huckleberry Finn, Nancy Rawles's My Jim, Virginia Woolf's Mrs. Dalloway, Robin Lippincott's Mr. Dalloway. Prerequisite: Eligibility for or concurrent enrollment in ENGL& 101.

ENGL& 245: American Literature II

Item 2700, section COL | Online | 5 cr | Instructor: Helen Lovejoy

Haunted America. Featuring haunted houses, covert night journeys, live burials, ghosts, tyrants, and the strange and nightmarish, the works of our course will send chills down your spine. These American ghost stories, gothic tales, and surreal sci-fi pieces exhume our nation's repressed fears and desires, uncovering national anxieties about democracy, freedom, and identity while revealing silenced voices and offering counter-narratives that challenge our country's official story. Join me as we ponder Emily Dickinson's frightful verse, Edgar Allan Poe's chilling romances, Octavia E. Butler's time travel, and Junot Diaz's nightmares. Prerequisite: ENGL& 101 or permission of instructor.

ENGL 181 / 281: Literary Magazine Production V

Item 2450/2460, section AU | TWF 12:35PM to 1:25PM | 3 cr | Instructor: Michael Mills

Interested in art, music, or creative writing? Join the Tidepools magazine staff next quarter! Tidepools is an award-winning annual art, literature, and music magazine that has been published by PC students for more than 50 years. You'll gain hands-on experience in editing, publishing, and media and be immersed in the art and literary works sent in to be published. During the winter quarter we will select the work we want to publish, develop the final layout, edit and proof final copy, and send the magazine off to the printer. If you're interested in writing, editing, design, or working for a magazine, this class gives you hands-on experience producing a publication that will be sold across the Peninsula. Prerequisite: ENGL 101 or permission of instructor.

ENVS& 100: Survey of Environmental Science

Item 2730, section AU | TWThF 11:30AM to 12:30PM
5 cr | Instructor Dan Underwood

Item 2740/2750, section COL/OL2 | Online | 5 cr
Instructor: Jack Ganzhorn

Survey of Environmental Science creates a student centered learning experience that introduces and applies the basic principles of science to make sense of the nature, causes and consequences of contemporary environmental problems. Students work in teams to apply those principles in the design of an off-grid sustainable homestead, complete with renewable energy systems, water conservation, and self-produced food. Through this process and experience, students learn not only what changes are possible but how to implement those changes. Prerequisite: Eligibility for both ENGL& 101 and MATH 090/091.

Film 120: Introduction to Screenwriting

Item 2800, section AU | TTh 1:30PM to 3:40PM | 5 cr
Instructor: Michael Mills

Writing for Film and Television. Film and television editor Lizzy Calhoun has worked on American Horror Story, Flight of the Conchords, Seven Psychopaths and more. She will join us via Skype from Los Angeles. Local web series directors and producers Emma Jones and Ryan Herring will visit class to discuss writing and producing web series "TV" shows. We will watch, discuss, and analyze films and television programs and explore how they are written. We will workshop and develop script ideas in class. Movie night will bring special guests and their films to campus, and you will have the opportunity to collaborate with Media and Drama students to make one or more scripts from the class a reality. Whether you want to write your first (or next) film or television script, or simply explore how films and television programs are written while earning humanities credits, this class is for you.

HIST& 127: World Civilizations II

Item 3030, section AU | TWThF 11:30AM to 12:30PM
5 cr | Instructor: Michael Cassella-Blackburn

Do you love Game of Thrones? Are you fascinated with castles, conquerors and the blood thirsty such as Genghis Khan or Vlad the Impaler? Find out how these people grabbed power or lost it, with or without dragons in History 127. This course is a comparative study of the evolution of the world's major civilizations (African, Asian, European, and American) from roughly 1200 C.E. to 1815. There will be an emphasis on understanding value systems and how they are expressed in different political, social, cultural, and religious systems.

FACULTY HIGHLIGHT

I headed west when I went to college at the University of California, Los Angeles in 1987. As an undergraduate, I was interested in teaching high school history. However, when I was living in Lake Tahoe, CA, I answered an ad for a volunteer to teach English as a Second Language to a group of Latinos in my community. That led me to a Master's Degree in Teaching English as a Second Language, and teaching positions in Boston, Costa Rica, Turkey, and Arizona.

In 2008, I came to Peninsula College to teach ESL to the immigrant community here. Our adult learners are hard-working, family-oriented, and grateful to be in school. Navigating a new country can be daunting, so our classroom is a safe gathering place for them, and we treat each other like a big family. They bring an amazing breadth of backgrounds to the class, and every day is a learning experience for all of us. When my students get their driver's license, pass the citizenship test, move on to college courses, or simply blossom into confident English speakers, these are concrete achievements that we can all celebrate.

Being a part of the Peninsula College team has been fantastic as well. With so many intelligent and caring people gathered together on this beautiful campus, it has made my job even better. I have always been well supported in my department to pursue my many professional development interests, which allows me to continue to hone my teaching and enhance the learning of my students.

I'm currently working on implementing changes in the classroom that I researched while on sabbatical last year, such as more student-driven, project-based learning. One of our recent class projects was planning a camping trip in the Sol Duc with 16 students, most of whom had never been camping or to the Sol Duc. They planned menus, sleeping arrangements, and carpooling, and, since several of my students were professional cooks, it was a delicious event.

HIST& 214: Pacific NW History

Item 3070, section COL | Online | 5 cr
Instructor: Michael Cassella-Blackburn

Come explore the History of the Pacific Northwest. This was a land of endless resources and endless obstacles for all who came to live in such splendor. How did the Native Americans adjust to the many invaders? Why did so many radicals and visionary utopias take up residence? And, most recently, how did we end up as a high tech, coffee drinking, micro brewing culture? History 214 will cover issues, ideas, and events that spanned the years of discovery, colonization, industrialization and the modern high tech world.

FACULTY HIGHLIGHT

I was raised primarily in small towns in central California. I received my Bachelor's degree in English from Fresno State and my MA and PhD from Indiana University. I was driven throughout my education by a love of learning and study. I've taken a wide variety of classes in fields from music composition to math logic and Sanskrit. I was fortunate to be able to continue my studies at Indiana University and work with several pre-eminent thinkers.

Currently I am working on my sixth public lecture series entitled "The Uses of Philosophy for Living." I feel that providing the community to participate with the college outside of the classroom setting is central to our mission. I am also currently developing a webpage that will bring together many of my past lectures and writings into an easy to access archive.

The greatest achievement I see from our students is their growth. Some go on to prestigious schools like Brown, Cornell or UW, while others advance their careers and finish special technical training. But our students' consistent willingness to work and grow always impresses me as their most important achievement.

I was raised in small communities and find the human scale of Peninsula College quite rewarding. I feel a member of a team pulling for a common goal rather than simply a part of some large, unknowable machine.

I have the opportunity to work with the best possible students. Our students come from a wide variety of backgrounds and are pursuing many different kinds of goals but they are consistently hardworking, focused and willing to learn. It is truly a privilege to work with our student population.

Associate of Arts Degree

Earn more and save more at PC!

Why should you get an Associate of Arts Degree at Peninsula College? Because it's a bargain that could improve your life!

Whether you earn a two-year degree and go on to a career or transfer to a university, your chances of improving your livelihood increase by getting a degree. And if you get a two-year degree from Peninsula College before transferring to a four-year school, you will be saving money. In 2014-15, the average in-state tuition for Washington four-year colleges and universities was $17,904 per year, while the average in-state tuition for community colleges was $5,224.

At Peninsula College you can earn a two-year degree by attending face-to-face classes or online to accommodate your schedule.

FACULTY HIGHLIGHT

Although I've lived most of my life in the Phoenix, AZ metropolitan area, I've also lived in IN, CA, WA, and briefly in Bucharest, Romania. I've had the good fortune to travel extensively for work and pleasure.

Some of the organizations I've worked for include the Department of Defense, the State Department, Intel Corporation, and co-owned a management consulting firm.

My educational background includes an AAS degree in programming from a community college in Arizona, bachelor's and master's (MBA) degrees in business with my MBA from Arizona State University. Finally, I received my Ph.D. from Gonzaga University in Leadership with an emphasis on Economic Justice.

When I was in third grade I'd said I wanted to be a teacher but for several decades my path veered in different directions. After my daughter and son had finished college, however, I began taking community college classes and my youthful desire to teach was rekindled. I've discovered that sharing with students what I've learned from my education and work experiences in an effort to help them achieve their life goals is more emotionally rewarding than my career in industry.

I'm currently conducting research on a couple of topics. One is on gender and the other is the future of business. The size of corporations has been substantively diminished. Facebook employs less than 10,000 while Ford's River Rouge plant employed 100,000 in 1940. Research shows that over 40% of the adult population will be freelancers by 2020. The question that compels my business related research is, what jobs are we training our business students for?

I'm thrilled with the initiative both the online and face-to-face students have shown. This term I'm teaching project management, which is inherently a team activity. Completing the team based activities is particularly a challenge for the online students, one of whom is in Vietnam and another is in Alaska. Like project managers in industry, the students have to determine how and when to meet including whose time zone will be dominant and why. Additionally, sharing and revising documents digitally is good training for students since it's a common practice in business.

Having come from an environment in which employment is fluid, job tenure insecure, and colleagues compete for resources including jobs; it's a wonderful experience to work with people who genuinely want their colleagues to succeed and are eager to help them flourish.
